B. A copy – or a description by category and location – of all documents, electronically stored information, and tangible things that the disclosing party has in its possession, custody, or control and may use to support its claims or defenses, unless the use would be solely for impeachment.

In support of its claims or defenses, NSR may use NPBL corporate documents, NPBL shareholder agreements, service agreements, trackage agreements, and related correspondence. NSR may also be in possession of other documents relevant to the claims and defenses in this case.

Additionally, NSR reserves the right to use any document produced by other parties or obtained from third parties through discovery. NSR reserves the right to supplement as applicable documents are made known to defense counsel. NSR further reserves the right to object to the production of any documents described above on any basis permitted by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

C. A computation of each category of damages claimed by the disclosing party – who must also make available for inspection and copying as under Rule 34 the documents or other evidentiary material, unless privileged or protected from disclosure, on which each computation is based, including materials bearing on the nature and extent of injuries suffered.

None at this time.

D. Attach for inspection and copying as under Rule 34, any insurance agreement under which an insurance business may be liable to satisfy all or part of a possible judgment in the action or to indemnify or reimburse for payments made to satisfy the judgment.

At this time, NSR has not identified an applicable insurance agreement.

Defendant will supplement these disclosures in the event more individuals with knowledge and information become available and if more documents become available.

Dated: November 22, 2019
